

On Life In The Sudan

By Bayyinah Sharrieff

My Black Brothers and Sisters, read the words of the Honorable Elijah Muhammad and study them. If you do, you will realize the Truth of His words and acknowledge the fact that we are living in a time of complete revolution.

I WAS IN the Republic of the Sudan during the time of their Revolution (1964 - 1966). I was a university student among their university students. They were dissatisfied with their government. And, as students do they were rationalizing publicity true facts of their government, which were not for the benefit of the masses of their people, which in turn started the general public thinking.

When the students started holding public gatherings to discuss their dissatisfaction, the government put bans on them. These bans were not heeded and bloody clashes between the students and police occurred sporadically through the capital city of Khartoum. Some of the administration of the University sympathized with the students, as did some of their families, and gradually dissatisfaction spread to the working classes of the people and a complete revolution took place, the old government fell and a new one on the order of the demands of the people was established.

Wake up, my Black Brothers and Sisters. You see demonstrations of dissatisfaction practically every day happening here in America. You see bloody clashes between students, workers and police daily. They are so widespread and frequent that the government censored news media is afraid to let it be known the exact location of all of them. They report "that sporadic outbreaks are occurring from coast to coast on college and university campuses."

I HAVE LIVED, in and experienced such happenings in the Republic of the Sudan and I can tell you in truth that this is one of the steps showing the decline and fall of any government. History knows this fact to be true.

In such a state of affairs we need right guidance. Would not the one who warns us of such things be the right one to follow for guidance? Most certainly, for such a one is interested in our well being. Like the mother who warns her son or daughter about crossing the street, she is interested in the safety and well - being of her child.

So is the one who gives us the warning now, interested in our safety and well - being. That one is the Honorable Elijah Muhammad. He is the one who wrote many years ago what will happen to white America, and to the whole world. He is the one who has boldly put in print, "As thou has done, so shall it be done unto you", referring to white America.

He told us of this dissatisfaction shown through demonstrations and clashes between police and the common people years before now. He told us of King Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the image with gold head, silver iron and part clay. Read his book, MESSAGE TO THE BLACKMAN.
