

Marriage

By Sister Ivylyn X

Being a Muslim is truly marvelous. And, sisters, we must submit to our husbands, for it is our role. It is really beautiful, sister. Your life is a reward, when you submit to your husband. Marriage like impassioned music has its moments of crescendo...a clash of cymbals! As-Sa-laam-Alaikum. Happiness abounds when you submit to your husband!

A MUSLIM marriage is everything wonderful—unity and harmony, love and patience. But the many blessings of married life in Islam can only be found in our getting a better understanding of our role. So, if you will only try to make him happy, he will always make happy.

We, as wives, should serve as a source of inspiration to our husbands; never allowing ourselves to hinder him in any way. Even though you are his wife-secretary, confidante, Girl-Friday, Chief cook 'n' bottle washer, there is no sacrifice that you can't make to please him. You might often have to bend over backwards, but in the end, it'll be worth it.

If you give him his due, both respecting and honoring him, you will be as one; cherished. Why you'll feel "like a Queen"! And who wouldn't want to feel like one?

A strong man can do anything he wants to do, if a good woman helps him to do it. When We work together and get to know each other better, with the help of Allah (God), we can accomplish what We will.

Therefore, it is truly a joy to be married in Islam. After all, the Honorable Elijah Muahmmad has given us something very special—The best of the Tree of Life—The Fruit of Islam.
