

Like most public schools, promotions come twice yearly

WHILE MUSLIM students are in school 50 weeks a year, they get a vacation during the last week in June, and again toward the end of February — which is the time of annual convention of Muhammad's Temples of Islam. Promotions come in June and February of each year.

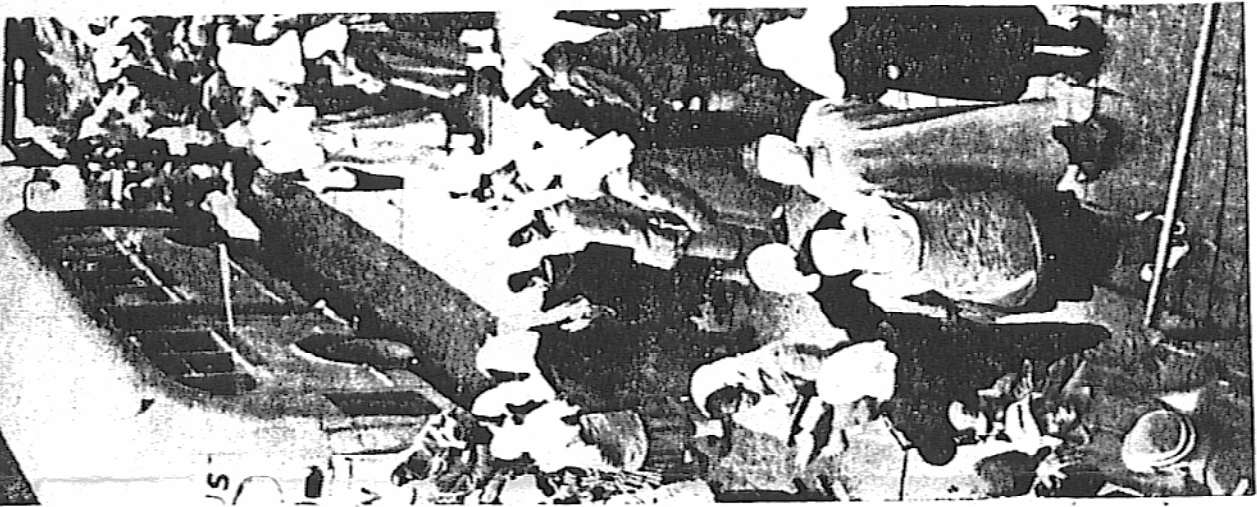

SENIOR HIGH students talk about everyday teenage topics after lunch in Temple No. 1 Luncheonette next-door to school.

STUDENTS' LUNCHEONETTE, operated by Muslims, is favorite meeting place for Muslim and non-Muslim high school students.

MUSLIM-OWNED BUSES provide transportation for students to and from University of Islam. Vehicles are clearly identified as school buses.

carry safety slogans, and huge letters saying, "Muhammad's University of Islam" on the sides.

DETROIT SCHOOL goes to 10th grade, and is accredited to 12th. They get same national holidays as public school.

FIFTH AND SIXTH graders get their lesson in arithmetic, and watch as teacher and pupil work on blackboard problem.

VISUAL TOOLS are generously used by instructors to get lessons across to pupils at the Detroit Muslim school.

